

VGGNet while based off of AlexNet has several differences. Instead of using large receptive fields like AlexNet uses smaller receptive fields. The smaller receptive fields layered still have the same receptive field as the larger one as AlexNet but the smaller filter allow for deeper layers and more non-linearity and fewer parameters.